Briscoe and Neno want out of the streets — but the streets don’t let go that easy. LIT is a story of two young men chasing a way up, and the price of getting it. From street-corner stickups to a bank lick that leaves a man dead on the lobby floor, Briscoe and Neno keep reaching for more — and the game keeps raising the stakes. A Jamaican connect. Fifty pounds a drop. Hood rich overnight. But in the streets, money brings vultures, old enemies want revenge, and somebody has been watching every single move. Loyalty gets tested. Ambition gets dangerous. And in a world where everyone’s playing for keeps, the only thing more dangerous than the game is not knowing who’s running it.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

King Legacy is an indie author writing urban street lit that hits different. His novels — REALITY, JEWEL, and THE DRIP CAPITAL — dive into survival, strategy, family, and the price of ambition, set against the raw pulse of the streets. With BONNIE, he turns to real life, honoring faith, fight, and legacy. Every book is built on one belief: some legacies aren’t inherited — they’re built.
