THE DRIP CAPITAL

A NOVEL

Book One · Part 2 in the works

by King Legacy

“Some legacies aren’t just inherited… THEY’RE BUILT.”

Chill Will grew up in the shadows of a powerful father, Chip — a man who moved through the streets with influence, respect, and a vision bigger than the block. He also saw the cost: how power can corrupt, how loyalty can be tested, and how one wrong move can change everything. Now, with his father’s legacy in his hands, Chill is no longer just a boy with a dream. He’s a man with a mission. But betrayal, enemies, and long-buried secrets threaten to destroy everything he’s worked for — forcing him to decide if he will break the cycle or build something greater than the life he inherited. SAME BLOOD. DIFFERENT DREAMS. ONE LEGACY.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

King Legacy is an indie author writing urban street lit that hits different. His novels — REALITY, JEWEL, and THE DRIP CAPITAL — dive into survival, strategy, family, and the price of ambition, set against the raw pulse of the streets. With BONNIE, he turns to real life, honoring faith, fight, and legacy. Every book is built on one belief: some legacies aren’t inherited — they’re built.
